Swindle Enlarges On Plans For Community Play Areas

Aurora — The following is a text of a letter received by the editor of The Era and Express from Councillor Thomas Swindle, Aurora.

The Editor, Era and Express: I would like you to know that I appreciate very much the splendid support you are giving the playground project. There is a point or two in connection with it that I would like to clarify, and I would be grateful if you would publish the enclosed article in your next issue.

TYLER STREET PLAYGROUND PROJECT

In order that the public should have a proper understanding of this project, certain points should be made clear.

The project is intended to demonstrate the value of small local playgrounds to serve preschool and elementary school-age children, and to develop the interest of the parents and other residents of the locality, in providing better facilities for the children, in the hope that similar projects may be undertaken in other parts of the town where they are needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Erle Quinn have given the use of their vacant lot on Tyler St. for that purpose and are also giving splendid co-operation in supervision of it. The project is developing nicely, but more money is needed to purchase the modest amount of equipment necessary.

A sister project is being developed on a nearby lot owned by Mr. E. Maher at the corner of Tyler and Mill Sts., and is intended to serve an older age group.

Mr. Maher has given the use of the rear portion of his lot, which is large enough for an outdoor rink in winter and a softball ground for children in the summer.

A group of local residents, including parents of the children and employees of Collis Leather Co., are working to prepare the grounds, under the supervision of Leonard Chapman, Temperance St. Mr. Maher is also giving splendid co-operation.

These two projects are being developed as local enterprises and are financed entirely by voluntary contributions. The town council is not sponsoring this project, nor to my knowledge, are any of its members opposing it. This type of playground is designed as a purely local affair and any assistance you care to give in labor or money will be appreciated.

Franklin St., Newmarket, suffered painful bruises on Monday afternoon when his bicycle came into collision with a Newmarket taxi driven by Stan Allen, 20 Timothy St. He was removed to York County hospital by Larry Needler, where he was examined by Dr. J. Gordon Cook. According to Dr. Cook, it was feared at first that the boy might have suffered a serious leg injury, but Dr. W. C. Kruger, who studied the x-ray plates this morning, said bruises were the only injuries. Since being admitted to hospital James has been under the care of Dr. D. B. Westcott, who said the boy would probably go home immediately.

According to Chief Constable Ronald Watt, who is investigating, the boy was riding south on Main St. near Timothy St. when the collision occurred. "The sidewalk on Main St. south of Timothy St. projects farther than the sidewalk north of Timothy St. A truck driven by Roy Penrose, Newmarket, had started to round the corner from Timothy St. to go south on Main St. and the boy says his intention had been to fall in behind the truck. He says he did not see the taxi approaching from the south but Penrose saw the taxi and applied his brakes to avoid any possibility of a collision. Penrose says he did not see the boy on the bike. When the truck stopped the boy was left heading for a point on the truck just behind the cab and he did the only thing he could do. He swung in beside the truck," Chief Watt said.

"In the meantime the taxi had begun to round the corner on to Timothy St. and Allen did not see the boy because of the truck. There was no evidence of excessive speed on anyone's part," he said further investigation was pending.

District Legion Branches Join In Drumhead Service

Newmarket — An impressive drumhead service was held in the Lions club park on Sunday with Padre W. Surman of Christie Street hospital as guest speaker. There was representation from Legion branches in the district and three bands participated.

The original plan called for Padre Fraser to speak but having been injured in a motor accident last Thursday, he was unable to come.

Legion representatives were present from Stouffville, Aurora, Richmond Hill, Sutton and Mount Albert. The local branch had a number of members on parade and there was a representation from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion.

A color party from the Legion Provincial Command in Toronto led the parade through the town and back to the park. The three bands in the parade were the St. Andrew's Girls' pipe band, Queen's York Rangers and the Newmarket Citizens' band.

Rev. Henry Cotton opened the service, introducing Padre Surman who had at one time been on the same R.C.A.F. station with Mr. Cotton. Padre Surman spoke of "the spirit of the Legion that draws men together and which is needed more than ever in these times."

In relating some of his experiences with men, he told about an altar on his station with beautiful candlesticks, which had been fashioned from an aircraft of Dunkirk vintage by men on the station. He used this in an analogy to show how these men "shaped a symbol of destruction into a symbol of worship."

"We should be grateful to those who stood between us and that crooked cross," he said. He recalled the men who were killed and also the 1,313 men in Toronto D.V.A. hospitals alone. The service was closed with a one-minute silence, and a hymn played by the band.

A distinguished visitor from Legion Post 78 in Buffalo was Dr. Nelson G. Russell who was born in Newmarket. For many years he was dean of the faculty of medicine at the University of Buffalo.

PUBLIC INDIFFERENT TO NEEDED REFORM

One of the most appalling aspects of the murder of 11-year-old Betty Playford of Owen Sound is the police record of the man who has confessed it. Fred Bussey has five convictions for indecent assault registered against him, the first occurring when he was 12 years old.

Whether or not Bussey is indeed the murderer is a matter for the courts to decide. Regardless of the outcome of his trial, public opinion cannot remain indifferent to the fact that a man with a record of five convictions for indecent assault possessed his freedom. Nothing could better demonstrate the medieval concept of sex offences possessed by our police and judicial system.

The very nature of a sex offence places its perpetrator among those most despised by their fellow men, but apart from the contempt in which he is held, his treatment varies little with that accorded other criminals. He shares their cells during his term in jail, and when his sentence is completed, he is released. No more effort is made to rehabilitate him than is put forward on behalf of a car thief.

Yet the sex offender is completely unlike other criminals. His acts are not motivated by the same desire for revenge, money or jealousy that cause other crimes. His are the promptings of a diseased mind. Punishment has no effect. He repeats his crimes on the impulse of his sick brain; he is an habitual criminal who strikes without warning.

Why were Bussey, and hundreds like him, freed after their first conviction? Like Bussey, most of them have appeared in court to answer charges of a second similar offence. Why was Bussey freed a second time to commit the acts that led to his third, fourth and fifth convictions? Bussey may be unique in the length of his record, but his history of conviction, jail term, then freedom, is the same for hundreds of others.

The sex offender must be treated in accordance with the nature of his crime. He should be isolated from other criminals lest his own disease be aggravated or others infected. He should receive psychiatric treatment. If there is a possibility of a cure, he should be confined until the cure is complete. If cure is impossible, he should be permanently confined, not released to claim another victim.

It is impossible to calculate the cost in life and happiness that has resulted from indifference to these most obvious facts. Consider the number of such offences that are accompanied with murderous violence in Ontario annually. Add to them the thousands of lesser offences of the same order that are judged in the provincial courts almost daily. Then ask yourself how long these conditions must continue before something is done.

It is a monstrous thing that a man should walk free with a record of five convictions for indecent assault. He and hundreds like him walk free without restraint of their vicious desires because of public indifference.

LESS SELFISHNESS WILL EARN RESPECT

The most effective contribution towards the final withdrawal of the proposed parking by-law was that the inconvenience it would cause would drive trade from Newmarket. In the course of making this contribution, there were several references to the fact that "the farm trade was the backbone of the business in the community."

It is unfortunate that the concern felt in Newmarket for those living outside the town is so confined to direct business advantage. It has had the effect of limiting political vision to the wider advantages Newmarket can offer to those beyond its corporate borders—and at the same time encouraging comparisons to the dog in the manger by critics of the town.

We had in mind the attitude, shared by many citizens, with which the high school area proposal, and more recently, the health unit, was approached. There was, it seems to us, too much concern with the advantages and disadvantages to Newmarket alone, too little concern with the benefits, or lack of them, to others.

When the high school area proposal was first aired, the most immediate concern was the cost to Newmarket, and infringement upon Newmarket control of the school. This self interest loomed so large that it overshadowed the advantages the high school area offers in improved secondary schooling, and contributed greatly to the decision to delay implementation of the area. The fact that any increase in cost would be negligible (indications are that cost of a school area might be less than under the present system), and the fact that the Newmarket high school board has no non-Newmarket member despite the fact that one-third of its pupils are from out of town, makes such self-interest the more inexcusable.

In the objections to the health unit, it is again self interest that is the inspiration. Its main disadvantage, as seen by a few spokesmen, is that the formation of a health unit will cost Newmarket its control over public health affairs within its borders. Yet what thinking citizen can compare this loss of local autonomy with the advantages to be had, not only in Newmarket, but outside of town where nursing services are unneeded.

Newmarket leads in North York by virtue of its size, its shopping advantages and its industrial plants. It can never be a major influence in the district, however, unless it adopts the necessary corollary of leadership in public affairs as well. As long as purely local considerations govern Newmarket public men in their deliberations, Newmarket can never gain the respect of its neighbors. The importance of the business advantages of friendly relations with our neighbors is recognized. Let us now recognize the importance of political and social leadership.

What Others Think

THIS STRIKE MEANS VITAL FOOD WASTED

(The Financial Post)

As usual the whole public is the chief sufferer of the meat packing strike.

Half a million farmers are unable to market a major product and face staggering feed bills and heavy dockage from overweight livestock. At least half the consumers of this country are going to be forced to go without meat. Vitality needed bacon and beef exports to Britain will have to be discontinued.

At a time when most of the world is critically short of food, millions of pounds are going to be wasted here. Beef cattle, lambs, hogs, and poultry are perishable products. When they are ready for market every day lost in getting them there means extra feed that should be going into younger growing animals and lower quality when the held back stock finally reaches the packer.

This is far too high a price to pay for some squabble over jurisdiction. If the dominion government hasn't the power to step in and settle this thing, then the provinces should.

With the flood of livestock now commencing from fall pastures, the main thing is to get plants operating again quickly. There will be time enough then to decide the Union's demand that meat packing be recognized as a national industry. In that decision too, certainly producers and consumers, who have as vital a stake in the matter as labor, should have a voice.

THE LAW IS AN ASS

(Midland Free Press Herald)

Several residents of Simcoe county were recently prosecuted under the Criminal Code because they operated gambling devices. Yet during the six months prior to these incidents, dozens of other persons and institutions openly conducted gambling games without police interference.

It is folly to expect enforcement of our present anti-gambling laws just so long as service clubs, churches, and organizations professing charitable intentions are allowed to operate a succession of bingo, lotteries, and many more bare-faced games of chance.

Either it is unlawful to operate or sponsor gambling games or it is not. The Criminal Code doesn't state that it is legal to commit murder occasionally provided one's intentions are honorable, that one can hold up a bank several times a year provided over 50 percent of the swag goes to a recognized charity, that larceny is legitimate provided one gives one's victim a half hour entertainment first. And the police don't have too much trouble enforcing the laws covering homicide, armed robbery, and larceny.

But, according to the provincial and municipal authorities, our anti-gambling legislation means, in effect, we will turn a blind eye to your indiscretions if you are a fraternal society, a service club, or a church, but watch out, brother, if you dare operate on your own.

This sort of law enforcement doesn't make sense, and more important doesn't make good citizens. If provincial and municipal authorities actually want their police officers to enforce anti-gambling legislation, they should so declare themselves. If they do not, they should openly espouse an amendment to the Criminal Code to that effect.

When one law is flouted, all law enforcement suffers.

FARMERS GOT HALF-BILLION IN LIEU OF TWO BILLION

(John Aitkin in the Scene from Shingwauk Farm)

In lieu of two billion dollars of additional potential income, the farmers of Canada were paid one-half billion dollars in subsidies in the eight years 1939 to 1946. This one and one-half billion dollars of less-than-market prices represents a gift from Canadian farmers to the consumers of Canada, Great Britain and the Allies.

While the farmers of Canada carried on under almost impossible conditions of labor shortage, equipment scarcity, and high costs, the organized consumers of Canada demanded and got increased earnings and short hours, out of all proportion to the earnings, and long hours, of farm men and women. Agriculture financed a great part of the wartime gains of city people and is sustaining much of their post-war prosperity.

Under the British wheat agreement the wheat growers of Canada have foregone two hundred million dollars of wheat money, on a world market basis. Adjusted payments will be proposed to the next session of parliament to make good part of this disparity, payments which would not have been necessary if the burden of the British wheat agreement had been borne by all of the people of Canada, as it should have been.

As a wartime policy to keep down the cost of food, largely at the expense of the people who produced it, subsidies succeeded. As a peacetime policy they prevent the free flow of prices and labor and delay the automatic adjustments which ultimately will bring urban and rural earnings into balance in a free market. Canadian farmers can write off both the money debt and the debt of gratitude owed to them by urban consumers. The sooner they get back to supply and demand prices, the sooner they will get their share of the wealth they produce.

- Around Town -
About the men and women you meet around town almost everyday.

Fishing is not a hobby with Dr. James Roy Lockhart—it's an obsession. His passion for the sport conquers all else whenever he is able to take a few hours off from his veterinary practice, and at such times his assistant, Dr. H. W. Reuber, is left in charge should an animal emergency develop.

Roy (or "Doc" as he is called by most of the farmers in the district) was born in Dufferin county in 1906, but was run out of there when he was a month old—on a horse-drawn sleigh. His father, the late John Lockhart, bought a farm in Grey county, near Simington, became the reeve of Osprey twp. and was a member of the council for nearly 20 years.

Roy received his elementary education at a near-by country schoolhouse and then travelled 15 miles to attend Dundalk high school, from which he graduated in 1924. After working for a paint company in Toronto for two years he then proceeded to O.V.C. at Guelph, from which he graduated with his degree, Doctor of Veterinary Medicine, in 1931.

He obtained the money which enabled him to attend college by selling magazines and farming during the summers and assisting another veterinary, Dr. H. M. Legard, Weston, during the evening. He also served his preceptorship with Dr. Legard.

Following his graduation he went to Woodville as an assistant in a large animal practice and in the fall of 1931 he went to Creemore, where he practised for eight or nine months and met Melba Skelton. He grew to dislike the hilly countryside, over which it was necessary to travel by cutter in the winter, and in the spring of 1932 decided to come down to more level country. He bought a practice in Newmarket and he has lived here ever since. He married Miss Skelton in August, 1933.

Since Roy arrived, the practice has grown considerably and for the past seven or eight years he has employed steady assistants. Dr. Reuber has been with him for three and a half years. Officially Roy has been the milk inspector for Newmarket for some time and he has also worked as part-time inspector for the Health of Animals branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. He recently completed a short course sponsored by the Ontario Veterinary Association at Guelph.

Roy likes hunting and his return from his annual retreat into the woods is treated as quite an event within the family. He has three children. He is a member of the Lions club and of Tuscan 99.

Urging continued support for the work of the Salvation Army, H. J. Luck, chairman of the campaign, said this week:

"The Salvation Army has endeared itself to people of every faith, because it always serves humanity at the time of need, regardless of class, creed or color.

"To those without hope or faith, to those who seemingly are society's outcasts, the Salvation Army is ever a faithful friend, seeking to return value and meaning to life, giving courage to start again, to work again," he said.

TO THE EDITOR

The Editor: Era and Express: In the issue of last week, I read an article entitled, "Teen-Agers Ungrateful," Mrs. Kate Aikens declares. I have been active for the past few years in Teen-Age work in Aurora, and wish to take exception to the statements supposed to have been made by Mrs. Aikens in her address at Newmarket recently.

I quote: "Mrs. Aikens' greatest impression of the teen-agers of today was, 'They are spoiled.' As a group they expect everything for nothing—are indifferent and ungrateful to their parents and to all adults generally, and have no sense of value or service to others. These were strong words but true."

We adults were teen-agers at one time, and some adults forget this fact very soon after marriage. However, a spoiled child or person, as I remember it, was one who was bad tempered, high strung and accustomed to getting what they wanted by a noisy display of tantrums, screams and tears. This term might be applied to less than one percent of the teen-agers in North York, but it is absolutely ridiculous to apply the term "spoiled" to all teen-agers today.

"Ungrateful and indifferent to their parents and to all adults generally." This is utter nonsense. In Aurora, Newmarket and elsewhere in Ontario and Canada, the teen-ager who is attending high school, college or going to business, is much better educated at their present age of 14 to 19 years than we were 20 years ago. This is a direct result of the radio in the home, newspapers and staying at school longer. Knowing and working with hundreds of teen-agers in Aurora and district, I would say from my own experience, that they have a wholesome respect and admiration for their parents and treat other adults, teachers, ministers, etc., with more respect than do many adults.

"No sense of value or service to others." How can adults expect the teen-agers to take an interest in their community and give a measure of service to others, when a very small majority of a total population of a city or town, offer their services to the council, board of education or their church. Why is it that we demand so much more of our older boys and girls in the way of service, when we adults refuse to take an active part in the communities in which we live?

Finally, this is a stream-lined age and our young people are very alert and aware of what they want in life. Consequently why should we call them "spoiled and ungrateful," when they do things today in a stream-lined manner.

Mrs. Aikens must have been very tired when she studied the teen-agers at the C.N.E. "Teen-Town" between her broadcasts, women's building, and fashion shows.

I have a great deal of respect and admiration for the ability and capabilities of Mrs. Kate Aikens, but am distressed at this public blast directed at our citizen of tomorrow, the "teen-ager."

R. V. Smith,
Aurora "Teen-Town."

THE COMMON ROUND

By ISABEL INGLIS COLVILLE

THINGS HAPPEN AROUND HOME

I don't know how other people feel about meetings but, with editorials, they have for me a decided fascination. The editorials open a door into the writer's mind and one builds up the personality, maybe, alas, falsely, of the people behind the pen.

Well, meetings are like that, too. One has two points of interest. First the speaker, his or her approach to the subject, the personal appeal of the speaker; last, but not least, the reaction of the audience.

On two successive Wednesdays recently I have attended meetings which were complete contrasts in every respect, and yet each had something of real value for those who attended. The first was a women's missionary meeting held at the Vivian church in which women from various surrounding churches took part. Three missionaries spoke, two women and one man. The first was Mrs. Campbell who, with her husband, had worked among the Indians on the Six Nations Reserve. She said one qualification for missionary work was essential—confidence in one's mission. She said the Indians were subjected to many temptations and their lives are hard. She and Mr. Campbell started Sunday-schools and found God's word could gain an entrance in this way.

Mrs. Ray, who with her husband had worked in China, was the other speaker. She said the only salvation for the world was in God's word. Their work in China was often hard—against prejudice and officialdom—and always dangerous. They followed in the steps of two missionaries who had met martyrs' deaths. "Often," said Mrs. Ray, "our meeting would be taken over by soldiers who would proceed to talk propaganda and abuse the 'foreign devils.' But the work was worth while for the converts were of the stuff of which martyrs are made and went to their deaths rather than recant and revert to heathenism. Mr. Campbell also spoke eloquently on what faith can do.

Mrs. Oldham and Mrs. Kaye sang two duets and Mrs. Oldham a solo very delightfully. They had a very fine accompanist to whom I here pay tribute, for accompanying is a fine art. Mrs. Rowan presided over the meeting and Rev. N. Rowan spoke a few warm words of pleasure at being present. A social half-hour over refreshments was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Next, Mrs. Aikens! I put an exclamation mark after her name for to me she is something like me, lending emphasis to everything she says or every cause she sponsors. We went to see her as well as bear her to find out something of the personality behind the charming, warm voice which her radio listeners know as well as their own. In her rose-colored and black outfit she looked as charming as she sounded but indeed when she spoke the magic of her personality made one forget everything but what she was saying. She gave us lots to think about in the short time she spoke. Her work takes her among our youth and she finds them spoiled—they get too much with too little effort. Until they realize and respect work as something essential to their development they will not develop into the true Canadians we hope will people our dominion, or should I say commonwealth?

She told us something of the amount of work and care and money that goes into making the C.N.E. the great fair it is. She found budgeting with the price chaos in the offing an almost impossible task, especially when the Exhibition managers want her estimate for next year!

She told of how, on one morning while making her rounds at the "Ex", she went into the beautifully furnished bedroom and there, to her horror and dismay, on the elegant day bed reposed a large, dirty and obviously intoxicated man—shoes off and dirty feet extended. She tried to rouse him but he was too far gone and an ambulance had to convey him to the hospital to "sleep it off."

She spoke of the possibilities of the C.N.E.—literally Canada's show window—and told us that Canada, in materials, in fashions and in almost everything is becoming known all over the world. In fact, the only persons who are not really Canadian-conscious are we Canadians. It's up to us to begin to show our pride and loyalty to a great country. Mrs. MacDonald thanked her for her talk with its many implications. Personally, I think the Newmarket W.I. should receive a vote of thanks for giving us this opportunity to see and hear Mrs. Aikens.

Then there was a sing-song conducted by Mr. Cockburn and a series of moving pictures on health and education which were excellent. It was the kind of an evening's entertainment from which you went home with a satisfied feeling—you had gained something.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Allan Gordon, received, gowned in gray crepe with corsage of pink roses, assisted the mother of the groom. The groom wore an American Beauty suit with accessories and corsage.

BRIDE

The marriage of Mary Elizabeth Hands, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hands, to Peter LePage, son of Mr. and Mrs. John LePage, Penetang, was solemnized in the Presbyterian manse, Newmarket, on Sept. 20, 1947. Rev. M. E. R. Boudreau officiated.

The bride wore a two-piece hyacinth blue crepe gown with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. Her attendant, Muriel Scott, wore an identical style in royal blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of Tullis roses. Robt. A. Hands, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

After the ceremony the reception was held at the Legion hall, Newmarket, with Mrs. Robt. A. Hands receiving in a dusty rose lace crepe gown.

For the wedding trip north, the bride donned a red jersey dress with black accessories. On their return they will reside in Penetang.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT MISTAKEN IDENTITY CAUSES DISMISSAL

Newmarket—A careless driving charge against Bruce Hopkins, Toronto, was dismissed in magistrate's court on Friday morning on the payment of $33.75 costs and witness fees. Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake, presiding, said there was an apparent confusion over whether Hopkins or his brother had been driving.

Alfred Oliver, Queensville, said he had been towing a repaired binder behind his tractor on the Newmarket-Sutton highway, had suddenly heard the screech of brakes and had felt the impact when a car collided with the binder from the rear. He said it was dark when the collision occurred but that a white light on the rear of the tractor was in a clearly visible position. He estimated the damage to the binder and the tongue at $150.

Oliver said that following the impact he had climbed down from the tractor seat and walked back toward the binder. "A man in a white shirt got out of the car from the driver's side and a man in a dark shirt got out from the other side," Oliver said. "The man in the white shirt seemed intoxicated. We waited for Constable Joseph Jardine." He identified Bruce Hopkins as the man who had been driving the car.

Ronald Sennett, Queensville, driver of a car which had been proceeding in the opposite direction, said his car was just abreast of Oliver's when the collision occurred. "Before I got far enough past the tractor to see the car I heard the brakes squeal. The car was about 75 feet from the binder and had its brakes on when I first saw it. My gate was not far south and following the collision I drove my passengers home and then walked back to the accident. I did not hear any horn sounded."

Robert Elgie, Toronto, said he had been proceeding north, in the same direction as Oliver, at about 60 m.p.h. when another car passed him at "terrific" speed about a mile and a half south of where the accident occurred. He said no other car passed him until he reached the scene of the accident and the car involved in the accident was similar in make and model to the one which had passed him.

Says Binder Visible
Constable Jardine said that when he arrived at the scene both passengers of the car said Raymond Burton, wearing a dark shirt, had been driving. "Bruce Hopkins, wearing a white shirt, said he owned the car but had left the ownership papers at home," Constable Jardine said. "Both Hopkins and Burton had been drinking. The binder was clearly visible for at least 480 feet before the car's brakes were applied."

R. G. McClelland, representing Hopkins, called for a dismissal on the grounds that there was no proof that Hopkins had been driving. The motion was denied and Hopkins was called to the stand. He testified that he had been on his holidays some 200 miles away at the time of the collision.

Raymond Burton said he had been driving the car at the time of the collision. He said he did not know whether the car belonged to Bruce Hopkins or to his brother, Elmer. He said he could not remember whether he had been wearing a dark or a light shirt on the night in question. Elmer Hopkins corroborated.

Harold Rodness, Toronto, was fined $10 and costs when he was convicted of passing when the right-of-way was not clear. Constable W. A. Melbourne said accused had driven a truck between two lines of traffic, forcing both cars to take to the shoulders of the road.

Asks Accused's Presence
Despite the fact that Max Rosenberg, Toronto, had entered a written plea of guilt to a careless driving charge, Magistrate Hollinrake ordered the case remanded for one week when he heard the evidence of Provincial Constable T. H. Craig. "I want the accused in court," he said. "This looks as though it is a very serious charge."

A charge that Harold Tunstead, Newmarket, had "taken the car of Charles Rusto with the intention of operating it without the owner's consent" was withdrawn at the request of the complainant, to whom court costs and witness fees were charged.

A charge that Everett Kirkpatrick, Lloydtown, assaulted Kingston Atkinson, Lloydtown, occasioning him bodily harm, was reduced to a charge of common assault and the accused was given a suspended sentence on payment of costs. Atkinson said he had to buy new glasses for $13 after the affray but Magistrate

Hollinrake told him the court was not a collection agency and he would have to take the matter to civil court.

R. W. Millison, Ajax, was fined $10 and costs when he was convicted of having beer in his car. Constable George Foster laid the charge.

OF SQUAW WINTERS GROSBEAKS, SKUNKS

By GOLDEN GLOW

If Indian summer follows "squaw winter", then surely we are due for our beloved Indian summer for last week was cold enough. Why, for three nights it froze quite hard, one morning specially—Thursday was it, I forget—and when I went out to see what the damage was, and uncovered my French marigolds, there was quite a cake of ice on the bird bath, real thick ice that I had to break, and I lifted it off in cakes! So if that wasn't good enough to call "squaw winter" then heaven help us!

On Wednesday of last week, the northern lights were out in all their splendor and that betokens a change, a very definite change usually and most likely cooler weather. It had turned cooler for a week ago Sunday the thermometer dropping 18 degrees between 5 and 6 o'clock. If you recall, we had quite a storm.

Oh yes, and we had the fire alarm as well. It takes the fire whistle to get folks out! The fire was a fallen hydro wire up Millard Ave. near Arden and folks came from all directions. Small boys galore, running up the road, yes, and small girls, too. Cars came from every direction, but like the fire truck, they made very little progress for as the sidewalks were crowded many took to the road. Baby carriages, mothers with babies in their arms, men, women and children flocked to the fire. The fire truck, which responded immediately, found its way blocked in that short space of time. Folks simply poured out of every house and joined the procession. Then cars began to park and their occupants proceeded on foot as they could get no farther up Millard Ave. It was really as good as a movie! It was no time at all until the procession formed up again in reverse and that was more comical still! Why don't we have all the fires on Sunday afternoons?

Woe Betide Late Diners
Now what was I saying when I broke off to tell you about the fire on Sunday a week ago. Oh yes, I said we had quite a storm—and folks could scarcely have gotten back to their homes after the fire before the storm broke. It came all of a sudden and pelted down for an hour—out went the lights and woe betide anyone who has late dinner on Sunday for the current did not come on for quite a while. I'd put the kettle on to make the tea but it did not boil before the current went off, but we had the kettle full of hot water so I made another hot drink and we did alright.

This is the week of moonlit nights and such a wonderful moon. Is it the hunters' moon? Last month was the harvest moon so I believe this is the hunters' moon—but it has been so chilly out-of-doors you did not fancy sitting on a rail fence admiring the moon. No indeed! You admired it through the window with the welcome heat of the furnace at your back! The frost finished all but the hardest flowers in our gardens. The lovely nasturtiums and other annuals all went. The petunias seem to be pretty hardy but the zinnias went the second night of the frost and as well as the lovely tuberous begonias. Have you heard that silly song about the "lonely little petunia in the onion bed?—it quite took her breath away!" The beautiful autumn crocus stood up to the frost pretty well. I knew I could not cover everything so I concentrated on the darling little French marigolds and managed to save a few. The birds won't be quarrelling about whose turn it is for the bird bath from now on and our silver-gray puss sleeps indoors. It surely did change overnight and that was a week ago Sunday!

Watching For Grosbeaks
By the way, we are watching for the grosbeaks, for you know they follow the soft maples and we were remarking about a soft maple in the neighbor's yard just covered with seeds. Grosbeaks have very thick beaks and have yellow on their chests. You can't mistake them, once seen. And now to finish up this rambling article in which I have been trying to prove we have had squaw winter so are due for Indian summer. Suppose I tell another skunk story! My neighbor called me to say she'd had a close call. She was coming home from the post office about 8 o'clock and the moon was shining brightly and she was opposite a street light so she had a good view of what occurred. Just before she turned into her place a pretty little bushy-tailed skunk came hurriedly out of the culvert in front of her place and started up her driveway. To her consternation, the neighbor's cat from over the road made one bound and started after the little fellow. She came to the phone to tell me, for she was worried for fear the lovely cat should be sprayed but I haven't noticed any odor of skunk so I think puss realized his mistake in time.

This is the season for skunks so don't be surprised if you meet

The North York GARDENER

By JOHN DALY

Vice President, Newmarket Horticultural Society

There is an idea prevalent that spring is the gardener's busy time but I've decided that the idea is all wrong. Right now is my busiest time.

The other day I started to plant my tulips. I have about 100 planted but I don't know when that story will be continued. Since then, the frosts have come and I have had to change my planting plans to digging of plants. In the short space of time between supper and darkness, I've been rushing around getting up begonia bulbs, tegridia bulbs, and dahlia tubers. Today it was glad and it was pretty dark when I finally got them in out of danger from the frost. If you haven't your glads up do it right away. The winds blowing at this time of the year whip the glads around and leave a space in the soil around the plants. This is made to order for the frost to get down to the bulb.

Storage of Plants

Begonias should be dug and taken in to the house with the tops on. Leave them until the tops die off and then store them in peat moss in a cool place. Not many grow tegridias although they are about the showiest flower of all. If any of you do have them dig them and cut off the tops. After they have dried, store them in sand or peat and put them in a cool place. These bulbs are a favorite food of mice so be sure to keep them where the mice won't be able to reach them. Last winter, I kept them successfully in a glass jar full of sand, suspended from the ceiling of the cellar. On digging your glads cut the tops off close to the bulb. Keep them in a warm, airy atmosphere until they are thoroughly dried.

A treatment being recommended is dusting with a D.D.T. powder. The insect called 'thrip' is carried in the bulb and the young hatched out in the warm atmosphere are killed by the powder and clean bulbs are the result. After the bulbs are properly cured, remove them to a cool dry place. Later when the old bulb can be readily removed you can spend an evening cleaning off all the bulbs. However, leave the husks on as they help to keep the bulbs from drying too much.

Dahlias too should be stored in a cool place. Store these with the stem turned down and cover them with peat moss and sand. Don't let them get too dry and examine them from time to time. If you find any sign of rot cut off the bad part and coat the cut surface with sulphur. If, as so often happens, you cut the tuber with the spade, sulphur should be used on the cut end.

THE NEWMARKET ERA AND EXPRESS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2ND, 1947

Tritoma (Red Hot Poker) is listed as a hardy perennial but in our climate it will winter kill and we have to store it inside. It's not hard to keep. Cover it with sand or peat moss in a cool place, and it will keep in good shape until spring when it can be divided and planted. The plant is well worthwhile as not many plants attract so much attention when it is in bloom in August.

Most bloom is gone from the garden for this year. Just a few of the very hardy subjects such as monkshood, mums or Michaelmas daisies are left, but don't be in a hurry to cover your plants. Wait until the ground is thoroughly frozen. By covering at this time, you provide a haven for such things as mice, and they will make it their home for the winter, eating the plants you want to protect.

POTTAGEVILLE

Sunday-school rally day service was observed at the United church Sunday. There was a good attendance. An inspiring story was read to the children by Mrs. Stanley Proctor who is superintendent of the Sunday-school.

The Baptist church held its anniversary service Sunday, Sept. 28, with Rev. McHardy, former minister of that church, preaching at both services. There was an excellent attendance.

A number from here attended the anniversary service held at Snowball Sunday, Sept. 28. Rev. Mr. Millen, Queensville, preached at both services.

Remembrance is a rose that blooms eternal year by year; Sweet memories clinging to the heart keep loved ones ever near. The tender thoughts that linger on are links that ever bind The loved ones who have gone before with those they leave behind. We travel down a winding road, a road without an end And you dear Dad, who seem so far away are only round the bend. Always lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

Fegg—In loving memory of our dear L. H. and grandmother, Samuel John Fegg, who passed away October 1, 1935. You're not forgotten, father dear. Nor ever shall you be; As long as life and memory last We shall remember thee. Ever remembered by Clarence, Della and Jack.

Shuttleworth—In loving memory of my dear wife, Augusta J. Shuttleworth, who passed away October 4, 1945. A beautiful memory, dearer than gold. Of a wife whose worth can never be told. Alone, unseen, she stands by my side And whispers "Don't grieve, death cannot divide." Thou art but on Christ's other side. Thou art with Christ and Christ with me; In Christ united, still are we. Lovingly remembered by husband and family.

Stewart—In loving memory of Ed Donald L. Stewart, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Stewart, who was reported missing while on operations over the Bay of Biscay on October 4, 1943. Today recalls sad memories. Of our dear son gone to rest And the ones who think of him today.

Take Time For Preparation
Nicky, an eight-year-old, is a tonsillectomy hero in the neighborhood. Previous to his recent experience at the hospital having his tonsils removed, Nicky was considered the neighborhood "frail cat." He was the type who walked around mud puddles because he didn't like the colds that followed wet feet. He was the type who asked for a bandage when he scraped his knee because once he had a painful infection in his knee and had to stay in bed a whole week. Nicky was very afraid of being sick and getting hurt.

Nicky's mother gave considerable thought to how she should approach the subject of the operation without throwing her son into a panic over the prospect. Being a very sensible mother, she first discussed the reasons the tonsils should be removed in such a way that Nicky actually wanted them out of his own accord. If they were putting poison in his body and making him have colds and sore throats all the time, if they were the reason he had infections every time he scraped his knees or cut his fingers, he didn't want the tonsils.

After Nicky had decided he didn't want the tonsils, the next step was to treat the hospital as an adventure. Nicky's parents had an interesting and busy time telling Nicky all they knew about what would happen at the hospital. Nicky was so curious, he was ready to go days before the appointed time. The main discussions concerned what the hospital looked like and how the doctors and nurses would be dressed—different kinds of beds and carts, etc., with little emphasis on the actual operation. He would have some strange smelling medicine to breathe that would put him to sleep, then when he woke up, his throat would be a little sore for a little while—but not as sore, not half as sore as it had been with his bad sore throats. It wouldn't be sore for very long and he wouldn't have to stay in bed nearly as long afterwards.

At the hospital, Nicky was interested in everything. Some things were exactly like he expected; other things he found out for himself. He wanted to know the names of all the doctors and nurses as well as what they did for other sick people in the hospital.

Nicky's mind was so filled with so many new thoughts that he had no thought of crying to go home. In truth, he didn't have time to be afraid. Things did move very fast at the hospital, but he had had days of preparation so was ready for the activity of the new environment.

Whenever possible, it is advisable to take time to prepare children for new experiences—that gives them a sense of security and enables them to better adjust themselves in strange surroundings.

There was also a children's service in the afternoon.

World Conference Hails Films Of W.I. Anniversary

Amsterdam, Holland—Five hundred official delegates to the Conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, representing some 20 different countries, received with spontaneous enthusiasm the showing of a color film of the 50th Anniversary Celebration of Ontario Women's Institutes and the historical pageant held at Guelph in June of this year. The film, running for half an hour, and giving all the highlights of the pageant and celebration, was taken overseas by Miss Anna P. Lewis, director of the Ontario Women's Institute branch, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis, Yonge St., who gave a running commentary as it was flashed on the screen at the convention session. The response was electrical. Women of all nationalities crowded around Miss Lewis at the end of the showing, and were emotional in their expression of thanks. "It should be seen all over the world," was the universal opinion, and the delegates hoped that copies would soon be available to send to their countries.

Making Voices Heard
The Canadian women attending the conference have been making their voices heard, and have had a wonderful reception. On the opening day, Mrs. Cameron Dow, past president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, and head of the Canadian delegation, spoke for Canada, and said, "Canadian rural women cordially greet sister organizations of other countries. May this conference promote mutual understanding and cement world friendships." One other day, when greetings were again voiced by women from all nations, she said:

"The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada warmly greet the country women of the Netherlands. The birth under Canadian skies of Her Royal Highness the Princess Margerite, and the last long sleep of Canadian lads in Holland's soil are links which shall forever bind us in deep affection and sisterhood."

Mrs. Hugh Summers, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, presenting greetings to the women of Holland, said: "The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, Canada, are pleased to present greetings to the women of Holland. During the war you won our admiration by your courage and your valor. We have appreciated the hospitality you extended to our sons. They were proud to call you friend and so are we."

Wonderful Reception
The reception to the Canadians was wonderful. When Mrs. Cameron Dow took the platform to speak, the applause was thunderous. Miss Lewis said in a letter: "The love and respect and gratitude towards our Canadians is a precious memory which they will never forget. I love to see their faces light up with warmth and admiration as they come up to us individually and say, 'Ah, I see you are Canadian. Your boys did so much for us. We are so grateful.' The intimate stories we have heard about how they housed our soldiers who were escaping from the enemy, the sacrifices which often had to be made, and their willingness to make them -- all this is a story in itself."

Old Rags, Paper Made Meal For Prisoners Of Germans

Amsterdam, Holland—A tragic story of life in a German concentration camp and of the sufferings of the women of France, was given to the Conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World in session here by Lady Triphaine Lucas of France, a vice-president of the association, who was one of the great women of the French Resistance movement and for her part in it, was interned in the German concentration camp at Ravensbrück. Speaking to the conference, she said:

"When I was in Germany, a prisoner of war in the concentration camp at Ravensbrück, we were almost starving for want of food. As we were so terribly hungry, our thoughts used to turn constantly to food, and the practical aspects of it, mainly cooking recipes. Since then I have heard that even the men in these camps were talking about food and nutrition the whole day long. Many of us learned thus the value of that primary object, the feeding of bodies and the best ways to do it. Many budding cooks learned how to become experts in Ravensbrück."

"The pangs of hunger were terrible. We used to eat anything -- old rags, paper, and cardboard -- in great demand as it was more filling. I hope none of the people here today -- in fact I am sure -- have ever experienced the real starvation hunger, and as a woman who weighed seventy pounds when I came out of the camp, I want you to hear that food and nutrition are the most important things our poor human nature needs vitally and daily for the entire course of life -- very materialistic as it may sound."

Commenting on Lady Lucas' statement, Miss Anna P. Lewis, director of the Women's Institute Branch of Ontario, says in a letter "These are strong words. I hope this can be told to the women of Canada. Certainly these women have suffered. Their courage and determination are marvellous. To meet and talk with them personally is an experience I shall never forget. I hope we as countrywomen of the world can use our power to see that nothing like this can ever happen again."

NAME OFFICERS
At a well attended meeting of the five-pin league, held at the Dixon Pencil Co. office on Thursday night, the following were elected for office for 1947-48 season: pres., Sidney Simmons; vice pres., Dave Lyon; sec., Ernie Bennett; treas., M. (Pat) Patterson.

We took a look in at Smith's alleys today and workmen are still at it. It will probably take another week to put the finishing touches on the alleys.

From the Bowls way we have some scores for the past week. In the Office, Specialty league A. G. Pettit was high man with 134, 204, 227, to make a total of 565. F. D. Scott bowled 155, 224, 162 to total 541. Third place was taken by G. Phimister with 156, 195, 184, for 535.

The Bradford Lions club left reports but only on single scores. Joe Magani 285, Art Evans 216 and Tom Hartner came third with 210.

Davis Leather league seems to be doing all right. B. Pettit piled up the following, 223, 123, 365 for a 711. W. Groves took second place with 283, 206, 205 for 694. J. Attwell 239, 209 and 209 to total 657.

Smith's team took seven points and Revill's team is now in second place.

The Saagamo league gets underway tonight at the north end.

MIXED TOURNAMENT
Newmarket — A mixed fours tournament will be held at the Newmarket bowling greens on Thanksgiving Monday, Oct. 13, commencing at 10 a.m.

NINE AND HALF TONS

Newmarket—The Newmarket Boy Scouts and Cubs collected over nine and a half tons of paper salvage on two Saturdays. The proceeds from the sale of the salvage are used in Scout activities.

A week from Saturday the Newmarket boys are joining in the national celebration of Apple Day with every intention of making it the biggest day of the local troop yet.

PUCK PARAGRAPHS

Scotty Mair is no longer a farm hand of Toronto Maple Leafs. The 27-year-old Newmarket boy and former Aurora junior hockey star was sold by the Leafs to the newly re-organized Washington Lions club of the American Hockey League. Hughie, who was married last year, has had a varied puck career. After two years with Aurora including the junior C finals against Orangeville, he joined Runnymede C.I. in Junior B, the Toronto school being Leaf-sponsored. Then he moved to Marlboros juniors and seniors from there to St. Catharines seniors and thence to the Canadian navy. At Halifax he was the top scorer in the Maritimes senior hockey loop. In 1945 he rejoined the Toronto team at Owen Sound and went to Tulsa Oilers where he was selected on the second league all-star team. Last year he was again with Tulsa and was up near the top of the league scoring race. When Tulsa was cut from the Toronto subsidiary chain, it was thought that he would wind up with Pittsburgh Hornets, but apparently coach Bob Davidson is well stocked with forwards. Mair should be a stand-out with the Lions and won't suffer very much financially. At 27, chances of going beyond the American league are not too good and Mair realizes this. He's good for quite a few years in minor pro, however.

Chances for an intermediate hockey team for Aurora have been enhanced with the news that Alf Chish, who performed well for Toddmore Legion last winter as well as in the West Toronto mercantile league, will be a permanent resident of Aurora as an employee of the Hart Manufacturing Company. Child reports several mercantiles as being interested in playing in Aurora. He'll be glad to discuss the matter with any interested citizens. At Milton the other night we learned there was a strong chance of Bill Cox, former Milton junior, locating in the Aurora area. Cox has been playing intermediate the past few years. He has the chance of a job near Aurora and if he can secure housing he'll be there. Don't say we told you, but we don't think it would take much effort on the part of those interested in intermediate hockey to talk Harold Rogers into lending a hand with the organization. Intermediate hockey always paid well in Aurora before and there's no reason it wouldn't this year.

Frank Sullivan, former Richmond Hill junior, son of the famous Dr. Frank "Pinch-hitter" Sullivan of Varsity fame, who has been playing with DeLaSalle Oaklands, is now located at Oshawa and is a leading candidate for the Generals Junior A club coached by Tommy Anderson. George Williams, who starred for Whitby midgets, two years ago against Aurora, is another almost sure starter with Oshawa.

Chuck Shannon, former Newmarket camp stalwart, last year with Owen Sound Mohawks, will stay in his native Niagara Falls this winter and coach one of the entries in the Fort Erie mercantile league. "Hogey-Pogey" has secured a pretty fair sort of job and is looking for the future. He'll play as well as master-mind. The group winner goes into the intermediate O.H.A. series. Speaking of former ex-service hockey stars seen locally, it is noted that Joffre Deslites, ex-army, and Lloyd Finkbeiner are both playing for Houston Skippers. Jerry Olski, bashing defence star of Toronto navy, with the new Kitchener-Waterloo senior team, coached by ex-Keswick resident, Flash Hollett.

Unionville will have a junior C entry this year. Whether or not the club will replace the Victoria Square team of last season remains to be seen but in any event, territorially, it will put a big crimp in the Square club of last year and for that matter will also take one or two players from Doug James' promising Markham club of last season. The men behind the club include Cy Allan, Bill Bradley and E. J. Appleton. Cy Allan is none other than Saral "Cy" Allan, well known Toronto senior and mercantile player who now resides in Unionville. He will coach the new club and he knows all the tricks of the trade. Practices have already been held at Royal rink and no stone is being left unturned to provide a winner. The new turn muddles more than somewhat the district junior picture.

STREET SCENE

Sign in a Detroit smoke shop window packed a lot of punch, besides advertising perfectoes. It read, "Old Chief Smokum says: 'When you need a helping hand, best place to look is end of your own arm'". On a Windsor street corner is aptly emblazoned in red paint: "Remember there's a You in U.N.O.". A new highball glass on sale in Detroit lights up every time the user takes a sip. So far it's only on display, but a wit remarked as he saw it: "This marks the first time that the glass gets lit before the consumer".

TRACK AND FIELD NOTES

Friday, Oct. 10, marks the return to district sports competition of secondary school track and field artists. Picking College field will be the scene with Aurora, Newmarket and Richmond Hill competing for the A. J. C. Eckhardt trophy. It marks the first competition by the schools since 1940, when Newmarket high won the honors. Markham will not be competing this year but hopes to return next season. The big trophy, worth around $500 today, was donated by the late Albert Eckhardt, Toronto, for competition in 1935 and as we recall it, Newmarket and Aurora have pretty well dominated affairs. Aurora has never been worse than second. Richmond Hill and Markham each won the cup once and Newmarket has one more victory than Aurora. All the schools are more or less in the dark horse class right now and nobody seems to want to hazard a guess as to the outcome. We doubt if the present day crop of athletes can match the performances of Bill Cripps, the late Bruce Stiles, Reg Perkin, Jack and Joe Dales, Bill Jelley, Rusty McDonald, Jack Cox and that great bunch of competitors from the past, but no one can tell for sure and it'll probably take a year or two to develop material as good as in the old days. The interschool meet should restore in all its pristine glory the halcyon days of competition between the schools. Aurora high is holding its track and field meet on Friday, Oct. 3, in the Aurora town park and the public is invited to attend. Grant Nighswander, Richmond Hill, and Delroy Babcock, Aurora, are toying with the idea of a similar meet for the district public school and news of the event should be available shortly.

NEWS ROUND-UP

Richmond Hill Lions are holding a gala shooting match on Saturday, Oct. 11. It'll be a big event for all the hunters of the district and a capacity crowd is looked for. Fergus Twistles eliminated Inglewood and district lacrosse winners in straight heats and they now meet Peterboro in the semi-finals. Blondie Rawlings, former King-Aurora high athlete, middle-aged it last week with Miss Eleanor Humphrey, Toronto. Mickey Sutton, brilliant young Aurora athlete, is still threatened with the loss of the sight of one eye as a result of an injury at work. The medics are sparing no effort to obtain the best results and sports fans everywhere are pulling for a 100 percent recovery.

Mark it down for a certainty that Newmarket Vets are now definitely out of the sporting picture so far as sponsoring teams are concerned. In a little over two years, this organization has expended something like $3,000 on a sports program and those in charge feel that it has been well worth it as a rehabilitation and safety-valve job for the ex-servicemen and a community service. It won't look the same without the Vets in sport somewhere, but their good works will continue along other lines. To all those who have had a hand in the plan—congrats for a job well done and some top-flight advertising for the town of Newmarket.

Sports Store Long Ambition Of Timothy St. Proprietor

Newmarket — Mr. and Mrs. John O. Hines, 28 Prospect St., Newmarket, are the proprietors of the new sport and cycle shop on Timothy St. W., but according to Johnny, "Catherine is manager-in-chief and doing a very good job, too. She handles the store completely. I have my hands full working at the bus terminal."

Mr. Hines says he and his wife have wanted to open a sport store for three years. "We were never able to find a suitable place on Main St. There are several stores in Newmarket, each of which handles some of the things we are going to handle, but there is no other 'one-stop' store," he said.

"I think Newmarket needs that kind of store if for no other reason than its young people. I am chairman of the Boy Scouts group committee, and like many others I appreciate the work being done here by the recreation commission. I think it is doing a marvellous job, but I still do not think we have enough activities for our young people. I would like to see a lot of sports, both for winter and summer, and for everyone from our youngest to our oldest residents. That constituted a good part of the reason for my wife opening the store on September 20."

Mr. Hines has always been quite a sports enthusiast, and has played hockey in Canada and softball in the United States. He and his wife moved to Newmarket in 1942. They have three

Ask Home-School Assn. To Sponsor Films, Talks

Newmarket — Speakers and films on recreation work were discussed at a recent meeting of the recreation commission, and as a result of the discussion, Mrs. N. L. Mathews was appointed to ask the Home and School Association to sponsor these activities. Provided that the support of the association is obtained, the commission plans to ask John Tett, recreation director of the community program department, to speak.

Following a discussion of finances for the commission's program, a motion to send letters asking for donations to the industries and other firms doing business in Newmarket was passed. The letters will include a report of the money spent for summer activities, and a budget for the fall. C. A. Crutcher was appointed chairman of the finance committee which will include the members who helped in preparing the budget.

Mrs. N. L. Mathews, chairman of the handicraft and vocational guidance committee, said she would ask the public school board for permission to use the household science room of the Stuart Scott school each Tuesday afternoon and evening for a period of 12 weeks, starting in October, for the holding of leathercraft classes.

"Twelve people will attend the afternoon classes and 12 others the evening classes," she said. "The charge will be 50 cents a person to cover the cost of instruction by Mrs. J. Cameron, and those taking the course will buy their own material. Supplies have already been purchased. A key case, comb case, a change purse, and a large purse will be made during the course of the lessons, which will include the tooling, dyeing, and in some cases the lacing of the leather. If this leathercraft can be classed as vocational training in the night school, the department of education will give a grant to the school board. The regular crafts of last year will continue again this year, and classes will be held in the Veterans' Dug-Out. Inspector O. M. McKillop is in favor of the plans."

Chairman R. C. Morrison broached the subject of a swimming pool for Newmarket, and asked for a motion requesting the medical health officer to take samples of the water from the Bogartown creek to test its potential value as a swimming site. "The Lions club has set aside a considerable amount in its budget for this pool, and a committee has been formed and information received from several towns regarding costs," he said. "The chairman of this committee is in favor of having the Bogartown Creek as the site of the pool, while other members are in favor of a pool, supplied by town water, at the Lions club park. I think that donations toward the pool would be gratefully accepted. The pool sponsored by the Lions is to be for adults. The firemen are looking after the children's wading pool."

The possibility of having a joint Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. located in Newmarket was discussed. Mr. Tett's opinion will be requested before any action is taken. It was decided that Jack McDonald would be asked to attend the next meeting to give his views on the feasibility of the past season and the hockey for the coming season. The secretary was requested to send a letter to the Newmarket girls' softball team, congratulating them on their season's showing.

GAME TODAY MAY DECIDE INDUSTRIALS

By GEO. HASKETT, JR.
The Canadian Hoffman softball club took over the lead in Newmarket Industrial League finals on Thursday evening, nosing out the Davis Leather nine by a 6-5 margin. Hoffman's now hold a two-game lead in the best of five series. The third game of the series is up for decision this afternoon at 4.30 p.m. A win by Hoffman stalwarts will give them the championship, while the Tanners must win to keep their hopes alive.

Moe Walsh was the villain, so far as the Tanners were concerned, in their 6-5 loss. The score was tied at 5 all going into the bottom half of the seventh when Walsh took aim and stepped into one of Don Glover's southpaw slants and banged it through short, scoring Ed Nullmever, who had walked to start the innings. It settled the issue right there and then.

Both clubs went for a run in the initial frame. "Shorty" Turan scoring for the Davis crew and Henry VanZant doing likewise for Hoffman's. The men of Hoffman slithered into the lead in the second with tally number two and added single markers in the third, fourth and fifth frames. It gave the Hoffman club a 5-1 lead. The Tanners refused to surrender and started shooting for runs in the sixth. Don Glover and Barney Revill trotting home on short-stopper Ken Harman's single. In the first of the seventh the leather-makers tied it up. Ned Tansley and Barney Revill scoring. It was at this stage that Moe Walsh took personal charge of dumping the tannery crew with his big hit.

Bill VanZant on the firing line for Hoffman's and Don Glover for the Tanners had much the better of the argument with the hitters as they both chalked up imposing strike-out records.

SIGNS AGREEMENT
The union at Robson Leather Co., Oshawa, headed by James Cullen, former Newmarket resident, last week signed a new agreement with the company following a strike which lasted since July 31. The union is affiliated with the G.I.O.
